System components

- Plastic anti-drip nozzle, 7 liters/hour
- PVC tubing
- Automatic temperature and humidity control (optional)
- Pump, 5kg/cm² (70 psi)

In summer times, reduce the temperature inside the poultry house improves the condition of animals.

The fogging system using micro mist nozzles is a method of cooling that is particularly well suited for use in broiler houses.

The equipment is comprised of a low pressure pump system, a circuit of PVC tubes and specially designed nozzles that convert the water into a fine mist.

The mist is absorbed by the circulating air, resulting in an immediate reduction of ambient temperature.

All system operations are programmed and controlled through an automated control device with various sensors placed throughout the house.

A simple, economical and reliable system to reduce the temperature inside the poultry house

Working pressure 5 kg/cm² (70 psi)

Temperature variation -4 °C (-7 °F)
